In anticipation of the Feb. 26 release of the books Salt, Sugar, Fat by Michael Moss and Pandora’s Lunchbox by Melanie Warner, we wanted to update you on recent media coverage and actions that we are taking.

This link also includes food images from the magazine and article covers with the taglines: “I Feel So Sorry for the Public - Inside the hyperengineered, savagely marketed, addiction-creating battle for American ‘stomach share’” and “Salt+Fat/Satisfying Crunch x Pleasing Mouth Feel = Food Designed to Addict.”

Moss’ article begins with the key points also included in the book’s prologue and provides four case studies that “sheds light on how the foods are created and sold to people who, while not powerless, are extremely vulnerable to the intensity of these companies’ industrial formulations and selling campaigns”: (1) In This Field, I’m a Game Changer; (2) Lunchtime Is All Yours; (3) It’s Called Vanishing Caloric Density; and (4) These People Need a Lot of Things, but They Don’t Need a Coke. Moss notes that that he “talked to more to more than 300 people in or formerly employed by the processed-food industry, from scientists to marketers to C.E.O.’s. Some were willing whistle-blowers, while others spoke reluctantly when presented with some of the thousands of pages of secret memos” that Moss “obtained from inside the food industry’s operations.”

IFIC and IFIC Foundation Plans: Based on Moss’ just-published adaptation, we are:

- Moving up the Feb. 27 release of the Feb. edition of our Food Insight Newsletter that features our book reviews. These reviews also will be repurposed as blogs on foodinsight.org.
- Providing general and committee-specific talking points in the near future.
- Exploring additional options to enhance our engagement in the digital media measured by the extent of coverage.

We will keep you apprised of additional details and please feel free to reach out to us at any time.

Connect With Us: We invite you and your colleagues to follow us on Twitter (@foodinsight; @ificmedia) and Facebook (www.facebook/foodinsight.com), as well as subscribe to our monthly newsletter so that you automatically receive (and are then able to share) the book reviews when they are published: http://www.foodinsight.org/Newsletter-Signup.aspx.

Additional Moss Coverage

- GMA indicated that Dr. Oz will be featuring Moss on his show. GMA is in the process of reaching out to the program and will be providing a written statement.
