

From: Tamar Haspel <tamarhaspel@gmail.com>
Date: Tue, 26 Jan 2016 08:11:18 EST
To: "Folta, Kevin M." <kfolta@ufl.edu>
CC:
BCC:
Subject: Re: glyphosate and chelation
Attachments:

We should. I am very sorry for what you've gone through, and it's distressing when mean-spirited, partisan attacks overshadow the real issues -- both on the science and on the transparency, both of which are so important.

I'm hoping that good comes out of all this. I'm working with the National Press Foundation to develop better COI standards for freelance journalists, and I know academic institutions are looking closely at these issues, too. Let's hope it all gets ironed out, given the new realities of academia and industry working so closely together, and we can all get back to talking about science.

I hope you're well, and glad you're on a good trajectory!
Best,
Tamar

On Tue, Jan 26, 2016 at 7:47 AM, Folta, Kevin M. <kfolta@ufl.edu> wrote:
Hi Tamar,

Sometime we should talk about the last six months. Pretty incredible. Mostly awful, but in the long haul worth it. I see how you and others had to deal with this stuff too.

Strange times, but I think a good trajectory.

Kevin

Sent from my phone.

On Jan 26, 2016, at 7:38 AM, Tamar Haspel <tamarhaspel@gmail.com> wrote: